REMOVAL.

The Office of the Daily and Weekly Oregonian has been removed from Carter's brick, corner of Front and Washington streets, to [illegible] Washington street, first door from Front.

NOTICE.

Questions in regard to the time and place of holding the State Convention, and other matters of importance, will be presented for the consideration of the committee. A full attendance is desired.

National and Rebel Finances

We constantly hear a monstrous hue and cry from those who oppose the Government about the immense debt caused by the war, and prophesies are as thick as drops of water in a shower, that the Federal currency will soon be worthless, and the whole bubble scheme of Secretary Chase will shortly be exploded, and the land made enormously bankrupt. With the traitors who make these assertions, the wish is father to the thought. They know that while the rebel financial projects are admitted by Southern papers to be utter and absolute failures, our own are becoming more and more firmly fixed every day in the confidence of the people and of the world. Gold is lower by thirty per cent than it was in June last, and the credit of the Government stands higher than ever, and is steadily advancing, so that its securities are in constant and increasing demand. This is illustrated by the ready sale of the six per cent bonds. Of these there have been subscribed and paid for within the past seven months, over three hundred and thirty millions of dollars. When first issued the bonds went begging. Even the shrewdest capitalists invested in them with caution. But so rapid has been the growth of public confidence, that there is every prospect that the whole issue of five hundred millions will be bought up before the end of the year. Nearly $40,000,000 worth are reported to have been sold during the first week in November. The force and significance of these facts cannot be misinterpreted. The Government is becoming strongly rooted not only in the hearts but in the pecuniary prosperity of the people. The wealth of the nation is weaving itself into the life of its civil and political institutions, while the masses at the South repudiate and despise the miserable currency which the rebellion is binding upon them—a burden too grievous to be borne—at the North and West they feel a direct and personal interest in the maintenance of the financial policy which depends upon the vitality and permanence of the Government, and the time is not far away, when those who denounce and strive to weaken confidence in the system, which is carrying us in triumph through the embarrassments and emergencies of this fearful conflict, will be looked upon as traitors steeped in infamy and liars without excuse. The most just and most severe punishment which could be inflicted, would be to compel those of them who have any Federal money to exchange it, dollar for dollar, for Confederate scrip.

It is Time to Act

Within the last two years a change which can scarcely be estimated has been made in business, in the remarkable development of a mineral region, and a large augmentation of population in the Territory of Idaho and eastern Oregon. A little more than two years ago, hardly a white man could have been found in eastern Oregon and in Idaho Territory, where now at least are some thirty thousand people. The discoveries of valuable gold and silver mines, in these regions are continually increasing and extending. Even the inclemency of winter does not prevent the finding of new mines and new gold bearing quartz lodes, and at this moment there is a conviction, general among the population of the mines, that the whole country embraced in Idaho Territory and eastern Oregon is rich in the precious minerals.

At this time we are well assured that the vast wealth of this region is sufficient a thousand times over, to pay the debt wanted for the preservation of this Union and the further debt which may be caused in crushing out the present unholy rebellion, and we may insist that the people occupying it should shape their territorial and State policy in reference to the new condition of things now rising before us.

Within the next twelve months, judging from the past, there will be a population within its limits of one hundred thousand people. Does not the fact thus presented show the propriety and necessity of government employing, in a decided manner, its means for development of the wealth of the country and securing to its citizens all the advantages to which they are justly entitled? Would not such a policy, while it would benefit the people of the rich and vast mining region, also secure by adding immensely to the wealth of the country, great benefits to our nation in this her hour of trial?

For Congress to withhold a Mint from this section, would be to strike at the prosperity of the mining region, because it would strike at the welfare of the miners who are compelled to lose vast sums in converting their gold into coin, and who, for want of coin, are obliged almost to waste their gold in the mines to obtain goods and provisions necessary for clothing and subsistence. The members of Congress sent from Idaho, Washington and Oregon will fail in their duty if they do not represent the demands of this country for a Mint in language which will be effectual in securing it. For them and for our people it is time they should act.

There is another matter of equal importance to our people—to our people scattered over all Oregon, and Washington and Idaho Territories:

> There is a tide in the affairs of men
> Which taken at the flood leads on to fortune.

And there is also a tide in our affairs which, if not improved, tends to sad disasters. The time has come when there should be a daily mail line from Salt Lake City to Boise, and from thence to some point on the Columbia river. The accommodation of the people in the upper country—now outnumbering the people of the Willamette valley—requires these mail facilities. Daily stage accommodations are required for travelers upon this route. Eastern mail matter would by such mail facilities be scattered over the upper country, weeks before it would be by present arrangements. The route would bring Eastern emigrants and miners directly into the heart of the mines, and if extended to the Columbia would furnish additional inducements for California miners to take the ocean, river and stage route to the mines. The time proposed would also enable our citizens, when disposed, to visit the States without passing over the out of the way route to San Francisco and thence to Salt Lake City. This section of the country has a right to claim these mail facilities. The Government will be richly repaid for any appropriation made for the establishment of the route suggested. There is a liberality which increases riches, and a withholding which tends to poverty.

We want to see an adequate appropriation by Congress for the establishment of a mint in this region and also for the establishment of a daily mail stage coach line from the Columbia river to Salt Lake City. The time has come when this should be done without delay. A failure of our Congressmen to act in these matters energetically and effectually would be a sad misfortune to all the country, in behalf of which we earnestly urge the early accomplishment of these most desirable and necessary objects. We feel most sincerely that "it is time to act"—that there is no time to be lost—for great and vital interests are involved in promptly acting in regard to these measures, which we feel sure that the Government will consider favorably, if they are pressed as their just importance demands upon its attention by those who represent us at Washington.

TOUCHING LETTER FROM A REBEL SOLDIER.—A "comfort bag" sent with other articles to the Christian commission from a town in this State contained a letter from the little girl who made it. The following reply was recently received:—

> GETTYSBURG, August 7, 1863.—My dear little Friend: I received your present, the comfort bag, and it is thrice welcome although it was intended for Union defenders. It was given to me by a Christian woman, who lost her holy anger for rebels (for such am I) in her bounteous sympathy for the unfortunate. My little friend can imagine my thankfulness for the favor when I inform her that I have no friends this side of heaven—all gone: father, mother, sister and brother, and I am all alone. The dear comfort bag I shall always keep as a memento of true sympathy from a generous heart from the loyal State of of Massachusetts. I hope you will not be disappointed by this coming as it does from a rebel, for I was forced into the ranks at the point of the bayonet, for I would not go willingly to fight against the dear old flag whose ample folds have always shielded the orphan and made glad the oppressed. I have read your note a thousand times over and wished it could rightfully have been mine. Do they think of me at home?
> Silence, all is silence. Not so with the Union soldier, a thousand tokens tell him yes. I was wounded in the second day's fight and am now packing up my all to be exchanged or sent back a cripple for life. I am seventeen years old, and now I am turned out with one arm to carve my way through the world, but my trust is in my Heavenly Father, who will forgive and bless. Hoping that God may in mercy reunite us all again as brothers and sisters, is the prayer of your unworthy friend,

GENERAL ROSECRANS ON CRUSHING THE REBELLION.—In his speech at Cincinnati General Rosecrans expressed his views as follows:

> I will say there is no hope for our children, no hope for ourselves, but to maintain our government exactly as it was—or if not as it was, the next thing to it, or if we can't have that, we will have but one nation anyhow. [Great applause.] I have been where I could see and hear from the enemy. My bearing what was to be heard, and seeing what was to be seen, has given me opportunities for judging of the southern condition that all have not possessed. —I will tell you one thing more, and that in reference to the opinions of those who think the war might have been avoided, and that some peace might have been procured before now if we had taken a different course. But I tell you that the only way in which we can procure any peace is by throttling the army of the south. [Applause.] Converse with a rebel and he will tell you frankly that he is sorry that the war was begun. They will tell you as their General Adams said: I notice that the extreme men who brought on the war are not fighting its battles. The planters and the people of the border have only acted with reference to the protection of their property. I see that the best blood of the country is being shed in a war that the South did not bring about. The people deplore the war but they are held by the neck; the military power has got them under its heel. You cannot therefore make peace with them. The only way is to keep tightening the cords around them, to get them so broken that the conservative people of the south can help themselves. This they will not attempt till we throttle the military power. Then they will turn to the leaders and say: We have had enough of this and will give it up. Accordingly I see no hope except in prudently and steadily crowding upon them as we have been doing, and the termination of the struggle at last will be in accordance with the great interests of our country and the world. [Applause.]

PUBLIC SPEAKING AT AMES CHAPEL.—We are requested to announce that the "Union League" are to have a grand time at Ames Chapel, next Tuesday afternoon, commencing at one o'clock. Addresses will be delivered by distinguished speakers, in behalf of the Sanitary cause. The public generally, and ladies especially, are invited to be present. Members of the League are requested to meet at 10 o'clock on the morning of that day for the transaction of some pertinent business.

THERE is a negro recruiting office on Cedar street, says the Nashville Union, at the door of which stands a negro sentinel with his musket. A number of persons standing around yesterday, took considerable interest in noting the conduct of white officers who passed by. The sentinel saluted every officer that came along, and received the usual recognition. At last Gen. Granger was espied riding up the street, accompanied by a lady, and he immediately became the focus of all eyes. What would he do? Would he return the salutation of the sentinel of African lineage? He did. Returning shortly after by himself, the sentinel saluted him the second time. The General paused, put him through the manual, and when he brought arms to "present arms," saluted him and departed.

From thence to Portland it would serve as the Oregon and the Columbia and Sacramento Railroad about which your constituents are greatly exercised. Upon the superiority of this location over any other I deem it unnecessary to enlarge as with a knowledge of the interests to be served an inspection of the map will show that it gives the largest possible benefit to those interests, and I think from the authorized surveys made by the agents of the Government and other data equally reliable that it is the shortest, best and cheapest if not the only practicable route by which a railroad branch of the Pacific Railroad may be made to reach the Columbia which shall pass through any portion of the Snake river valley. But as the proofs if I undertake to render them in full will fill this and several other sheets I will not enter upon them to-day.

Very Truly Yours,

ARRESTED.—We are informed that a man named Robinson, charged with obtaining goods under false pretences, arrived on the Hunt night before last, registered his name at a hotel, took a bed, but turned out quite early and went on the steamer yesterday morning to Oregon City. Meantime some of the parties interested got on his track, followed him with a telegram, and he was arrested upon the arrival of the boat there, and returned to this city last evening and is now locked up awaiting an examination this morning.

STEAMER SUNRISE.—This new boat which came down from Milwaukie in tow of the steamer Hunt yesterday, is a very substantial and handsome concern, and will no doubt prove a valuable acquisition to our fleet of river boats. She is built of native material, has a length over all of 132 feet, 24 feet 6 in beam, and 5 feet depth of hold. Her main keelson is all one stick, without a scarf 125 feet long, 18 inches deep by 6 inches thick; the side keelsons running the entire length to the flare of her bow are 12 inches deep by 8 thick, supporting every few feet stancheons that extend to the deck and are diagonally braced, so as to form a truss frame the entire length; the main clamps are 28 by 24 inches in two pieces, and her bilge clamps 24 by 14 inches. Her outside planking is 2½ inches. Her extreme carrying capacity will probably exceed 200 tons. She was constructed by Mr John Thomas at Milwaukie for himself and Mr Joseph Kellogg, and no pains or expense has been spared to make her what she ought to be. Her spacious saloons are so arranged that they can be thrown together or kept entirely separate, to suit the convenience of lady passengers or steamboat parties. She will have a few state rooms and every useful accommodation, and is built and arranged throughout with a view to any river trade which may demand her services. We understand that she is to be employed by the People's Transportation Company. The boiler and machinery of the old boat bearing her name will be used in her, with some improvements and additions. She can carry a stern wheel of 18 feet with 15 feet buckets, but it is doubtful whether so much diameter will be requisite or advantageous. Her present draft is scarcely 15 inches, and it is estimated that when in running order, with 100 tons freight on board, she will draw little if any over 30.

BRUTAL ASSAULT.—About midnight before last, a man named Hell, near the corner of Second and Yamhill streets, was knocked down and brutally beaten by two of the gang of murderous ruffians who this winter infest the city. George Townsend, private watchman, was active in his endeavors to arrest the perpetrators, but they eluded all pursuit. We have been informed that there are but two officers, the Marshal and one Deputy, paid by the City as a police force, while three men are employed in different parts of the city by private subscription, to guard property. Of course it cannot be expected that the city can be sufficiently guarded and the safety of the citizens secured with so small a force. If we expect to attain to any decided prosperity as a habitable place, it will be much better to secure and pay an efficient police force than to squander the revenue from taxes in law suits or improving public squares over which the passer after dark must go armed to the teeth or risk his life at the hands of the unmolested assassin. Our citizens will never grumble at being taxed either for lighting the streets, or the employment of a police force.

ABSENT MINDED.—We have in this city one of the most successful and accomplished sons of Nimrod and ramrod, that can be found on the Pacific Coast—he is withal one of the best natured and kind hearted men among us and is especially popular in his department in one of our first class hotels.

Last week he heard of famous trout in the mill creek at Milwaukie, and of course he started by the first morning boat to play with and capture "the spotted cherubs of the stream."

> "With basket slung and rod all matched."

He waited impatiently his arrival at the Standard Mills, and when the whistle sounded he began to gather up his "traps," but was greatly perplexed to find his basket missing. He searched everywhere, and though every one else could see it, he was suffered to hunt till he landed, when it was shown to him safely hung on his shoulders, where it had been ever since he started! Well, he fished all day until the boat's return, and grand success, as usual, attended his adroit skill. He came back, serene in his native dignity, and on his arrival at the wharf, was earnestly greeted by a score of hotel runners, who regarding him as "an honest farmer" from the upper country, insisted with the most affectionate solicitude on providing him with comfortable and even luxuriant apartments at their respective headquarters, and it is reported that he was so much overcome by their kindness and attentions, that he forgot who he was or where he belonged, and was actually about to secure rooms in the commodious "Temperance House," under the hospitable care of our friend Veeder, when he suddenly remembered that he was "boss" of another institution, and he fled like Adam out of Eden to his own duties, responsibilities and his chief, and safe at home, recounted his exploits and perils in the hearing of his anxious friends, who had been greatly alarmed at his long and unaccountable absence.

ADJOURNMENT OF CARPET SALE.—The auction sale of carpets, &c., at Mr Troutt's, advertised for yesterday, was adjourned until next Thursday morning. On the articles sold the bidding was spirited, and prices ranged high.

HOLYDAY AUCTION THIS MORNING.—To all desirous of procuring suitable presents for their lady friends, cheap as well as suitable, we would recommend the grand holiday sale of shawls, furs, dress patterns, etc., at A. B. Richardson's Auction Rooms, corner Front and Oak streets, at 10 o'clock, this morning.

NEW FURNITURE STORE.—Emil, Lowenstein & Co., manufacturers and dealers in furniture, upholstery, &c., have a splendid stock of goods in their establishment, No. 138 First street, which is well deserving of public patronage. Read their advertisement.

TEACHERS WANTED.—By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that a competent person to discharge the duties of Principal of the public school, and also a male assistant for the second department of the same institution, are called for by the Public School Directors of this city.

THERE is no other way to cure diseases but by first purifying the whole system so as to create a healthy circulation.

The first medical men of the age agree with us that [illegible] of any extent [illegible] with [illegible] such medicines as will act directly upon the blood. Why [illegible] medical men have failed to cure [illegible] diseases is because the medicines used have not been such as will act beneficially on the blood.

The many thousands of bottles which have [illegible] and the many [illegible] supplied to the physicians, warrant us in saying, that the last two years we have been more successful with our Scovill's Blood and Liver Syrup in curing hopeless cases of chronic diseases than have any other remedies in the hands of physicians or before the public.

It is now admitted that no combination known to the profession acts so promptly upon diseases as our SCOVILL'S BLOOD AND LIVER SYRUP.

HARRINGTON'S 91 First st

After the Battle

There was no fierceness in the eyes of those men now, as they sat face to face on the bank of the stream; the strife and anger had all gone now and they sat still—dying men who for a few hours before had been deadly foes—sat still and looked at each other. At last one of them spoke. "We have neither of us a chance to hold out much longer, I judge."

"No," said the other with a little mixture of sadness and recklessness. "You did that last job of yours well, [illegible]" and pointed to a wound a little above his heart, from which the life blood was slowly oozing.

"Not better than you did yours," answered the other, with a grim smile, and he pointed to a wound a little higher up, larger and more ragged—a deadly one. And then the two men gazed on each other again in the dim light, for the moon had come over the hills now and stood among her stars like a pearl of great price. And as they looked, a softer feeling stole over the heart of each toward his fallen foe—a feeling of pity for the strong, manly life laid low, a feeling of regret for that inexorable necessity of war which made each man the slayer of the other, and at last one spoke. "There's some folks in the world that'll feel worse when you're gone out of it!"

A spasm of pain was on the bronzed, ghastly features. "Yes," said the man in thick tones, "there's one woman with a little boy and girl, away up among the New Hampshire mountains, that it'll well nigh kill to hear of this," and then the man groaned out in bitter anguish, "O God have pity on my wife and children!"

And the other drew closer to him. "And away down among the cotton fields of Georgia there's a woman and a little girl whose hearts will break when they hear what this day has done," and then the cry wrung itself sharply out of his heart, "O God, have pity upon them!"

And from that moment the Northerner and Southerner ceased to be foes. The thought of those distant homes on which the anguish was so soon to fall drew them close together in that last hour, and the two men wept like children. And at last the Northerner spoke, talking more to himself than anything else, and he did not know the other was listening greedily to every word.

"She used to come—my little girl—bless her heart!—every night to meet me when I came home from the fields, and she would stand under the great plum tree, that's just beyond the back door at home, with the sunlight making a yellow crown in her golden curls and the laugh dancing in her eyes when she heard the click of the gate. I see her now—and I'd take her in my arms, and she'd put up her little little red lips for a kiss. But my little girl will never watch under the old plum tree by the well for her father again. I shall never hear the cry of joy as she catches a glimpse of me at the gate. I shall never see her little feet running over the grass to spring into my arms again!"

"And then," said the southerner, "there is a little brown eyed, brown haired girl, that used to watch in the cool afternoons for her father, when he rode in from his visit to the plantations. I can see her sweet face shining out now from the roses that covered the pillars—and her shout of joy as I bounded from my horse and chased the little flying feet and the loud laugh up and down the verandah. But my darling, your bright little face will grow pale with watching among the roses for your father, and you and he will never go laughing and romping up and down the old verandah again!"

And the northernerner drew near to the southerner, and the hot tears stood on his cold cheeks, as he said, "Friend, may God have pity on our fatherless children."

"Amen!" said the southerner, fervently.

And the northerner spoke, now in a husky whisper, for the eyes of the dying men were glazing fast—"We have fought like brave men, together. We are going before God in a little while. Let us forgive each other."

The southerner tried to speak, but the sound died away in a gurgle from his white lips—but he took the hand of his fallen foe, and his stiffening fingers closed tight over it and his last look was a smile of forgiveness and peace. And when the next morning's sun walked up the gray stairs of the dawn, touched with pink, it looked down and saw the two foes lying dead with their hands clasped in each other, by the stream which ran close to the battle field. And the little girl with bright brown hair that waited by the roses among the green plains of Georgia, and the little girl with golden hair that watched under the plum tree among the hills of New Hampshire, were fatherless.—Home Monthly.

On the La Crosse railroad one day in September, a newly married couple were taking their wedding journey. The bride was pretty and the groom devotedly fond of her, as appeared from the frequent little kisses that he printed on her cheek. Behind them sat a worthy pious maiden lady, about 60 years of age. The happiness of this world had no charms for her, it was all transitory and a good deal mixed up with sin, or she erred in her estimate of the compound. She had been all the time for the past 15 years, looking to the future, that is, to the future world, where they don't get married and ride in the cars. But this young and happy couple sat right in front of her. She couldn't help seeing them, and though a little deaf, once in a while she heard a smack that made her scowl in contempt of connubial bliss.

They passed through a tunnel—long, dark tunnel, and as they entered it, the bridegroom was standing up to get a view of the great work from a window a little ahead of his own seat. Just before they emerged from the darkness, the pious good soul of a maiden lady screamed! All hands were alarmed. They thought the tunnel had fallen in. But it hadn't. A second more, and daylight flashed in. There was the bridegroom by the side of the maiden lady, his nose under her hood—and she had been kissed in her life "just once." But the little bride didn't care for she knew he had made a mistake.—Hartford Times.

Didn't Know his own Baby.—A citizen of Jamaica Plains, L. I., went to answer a ring at the door at the request of his wife, where he found nothing but a basket. On removing the cover a beautiful little child appeared, some five months old. The lady screamed. [illegible] lady visitor took up the baby, and found a note pinned to its dress which charged the gentleman with being its father, and imploring him to support it. A rich scene ensued between the injured wife and indignant husband, the latter denying all knowledge of the little one and asserting his innocence. The friend interfered, and at last the wife was induced to forgive her husband though he stuck to it like a trojan that he had always been a faithful husband. Finally the lady very roguishly told her husband it was strange he did not know his own child for it was their own mutual offspring, which had just been taken from the cradle for the purpose of playing the joke.

A number of bachelors over thirty five were drafted in Providence. Being laughed at for not being married and thereby escaping the draft they maliciously replied: "It is better to serve three years than for life."

The other day while a teacher was hearing a boy recite his lessons the following passage occurred: "The wages of sin is death." The teacher wishing to get the word wages out by induction asked—"What does your father get on Saturday night?" And the boy instantly answered: "He gets tight as a brick!"

Quarrels.—Two things well considered would prevent many quarrels—first, to have it well ascertained whether we are not disputing about terms rather than things, and secondly to examine whether that on which we differ is worth contending about.

General Rosecrans was dining with his staff one day at a Memphis hotel. After having tasted the butter he rose and saluted it, saying, "Gentlemen, that butter outranks me."

AYER'S Cathartic Pills,

(SUGAR COATED.)

ARE MADE TO

CLEANSE THE BLOOD AND CURE THE SICK.

Invalids, Fathers, Mothers, Physicians, Philanthropists, read their Effects, and judge of their Virtues.

Headache, Sick Headache, Foul Stomach.

PITTSBURG, PA., May 1, 185[illegible].

DR. J. C. AYER. Sir: I have been repeatedly cured of the worst headache any body can have by a dose or two of your Pills. It seems to arise from a foul stomach, which they cleanse at once. If they will cure others as they do me, the fact is worth knowing. Yours with great respect, ED. W. PREBLE, Clerk of Steamer Clarion.

Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, WASHINGTON, D. C., [illegible]

SIR: I have used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Their regulating action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an admirable remedy for derangements of that organ. Indeed, I have seldom found a case of bilious disease so obstinate that it did not readily yield to them. Fraternally yours,

ALONZO BALL, M. D., Physician of the Marine Hospital.

Dysentery, Relax, and Worms.

POST OFFICE, HARTLAND, LIV. CO., MICH., Nov. 15, 185[illegible].

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the perfection of medicine. They have done my wife more good than I can tell you. She had been sick and pining away for months. Went off to be doctored at great expense, but got no better. She then commenced taking your Pills, which soon cured her, by expelling large quantities of worms (dead) from her body. They afterwards cured her and our two children of bloody dysentery. One of our neighbors had it bad, and my wife cured him with two doses of your Pills, while others around us paid from five to twenty dollars doctors' bills, and lost much time, without being cured entirely even then. Such a medicine as yours, which is actually good and honest, will be prized here. GEO. J. GRIFFIN, Postmaster.

Indigestion and Impurity of the Blood.

From Rev. J. V. Himes, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.

DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit in distress. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood, they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. HIMES.

WARSAW, WYOMING CO., N. Y., Oct. 24, 185[illegible].

DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the fountains of the blood.

JOHN G. MEACHAM, M. D.

Erysipelas, Scrofula, King's Evil, Tetter, Tumors, and Salt Rheum.

From a Forwarding Merchant of St. Louis, Feb. 4, 185[illegible].

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the paragon of all that is great in medicine. They have cured my little daughter of ulcerous sores upon her hands and feet that had proved incurable for years. Her mother has been long grievously afflicted with blotches and pimples on her skin and in her hair. After our child was cured, she also tried your Pills, and they have cured her.

ASA MORGRIDGE.

Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and Gout.

From the Rev. Dr. Hawkes, of the Methodist Epis. Church.

PULASKI HOUSE, SAVANNAH, GA., Jan. 6, 185[illegible].

HONORED SIR: I should be ungrateful for the relief your skill has brought me if I did not report my case to you. A cold settled in my limbs and brought on excruciating neuralgic pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best of physicians, the disease grew worse and worse, until by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore, Dr. Mackenzie, I tried your Pills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them I am now entirely well.

SENATE CHAMBER, BATON ROUGE, LA., 5 Dec., 185[illegible].

DR. AYER: I have been entirely cured by your Pills of Rheumatic Gout—a painful disease that had afflicted me for years.

VINCENT SLIDELL.

For Dropsy, Plethora, or kindred Complaints, requiring an active purge, they are an excellent remedy.

For Costiveness or Constipation, and as a Dinner Pill, they are agreeable and effectual.

Fits, Suppression, Paralysis, Inflammation, and even Deafness, and Partial Blindness, have been cured by the alterative action of these Pills.

Most of the pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands, is dangerous in a public pill, from the dreadful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

and for the relief of consumptive patients in advanced stages of the disease.

We need not speak to the public of its virtues. Throughout every town, and almost every hamlet of the American States, its wonderful cures of pulmonary complaints have made it already known. Nay, few are the families in any civilized country on this continent without some personal experience of its effects; and fewer yet the communities any where which have not among them some living trophy of its victory over the subtle and dangerous diseases of the throat and lungs. While it is the most powerful antidote yet known to man for the formidable and dangerous diseases of the pulmonary organs, it is also the pleasantest and safest remedy that can be employed for infants and young persons. Parents should have it in store against the insidious enemy that steals upon them unprepared. We have abundant grounds to believe the Cherry Pectoral saves more lives by the consumptions it prevents than those it cures. Keep it by you, and cure your colds while they are curable, nor neglect them until no human skill can master the inexorable canker that, fastened on the vitals, eats your life away. All know the dreadful fatality of lung disorders, and as they know too the virtues of this remedy, we need not do more than to assure them it is still made the best it can be. We spare no cost, no care, no toil to produce it the most perfect possible, and thus afford those who rely on it the best agent which our skill can furnish for their cure.

J. B. Thorn, Chemist, London, John A. Tarrant, New York, Sole Agent for the United States.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

The increasing reputation and great demand for Thorn's Compound Extract of Copaiba and Sarsaparilla have led inducements to others to offer imitations of this valuable medicine. Vendors are particularly warned of this fact, that they may be on their guard and not dispose of any impure article calculated to injure their reputation, and destroy the merits of the original preparation, to obviate which the subscriber (successor to James Tarrant), by whom it was first introduced into the United States, has attached his signature to this caution to counterfeit which is forgery.
